OVERVIEW

The Ironwood Investment Management investment process seeks to combine the risk-averse nature of value investing with the superior long-term capital appreciation potential of domestic, small company stocks. The focus is on companies with less than $2.5 billion in market capitalization.

INVESTMENT PHILOSOPHY

Ironwood Investment Management intends to pursue a diversified, value-oriented approach in the selection of securities. As part of this approach, the investment team identifies companies that we believe are not fully valued or unfairly depressed in the marketplace. Frequently these companies are out of favor, misunderstood or under-followed by Wall Street and offer the potential for substantial appreciation over time. This investment strategy of investing in small capitalization companies will generally involve a two-to-three year time horizon and this investment should be considered as part of a long-term investment plan.

PORTFOLIO MANAGEMENT

The Small Company Stock strategy follows a bottom up approach that is largely consensus-driven. Determining the real economic value of a company and comparing it with the current valuation is one of the keys to the stock selection process. The investment team has built a dedicated following among small cap investors due to its original research combined with over a century of aggregate investment experience.
